

BACK FROM THE FIELD SERIES III

Co-sponsored by the Doctoral and Graduate Student Council and PhD Program in Anthropology at CUNY Graduate Center

Join us for an evening of student-organized and student-led discussions about the challenges and rewards of field research. This month we feature three speakers: Oscar Aponte (History), whose research revolves around agrarian history, rural colonization, indigenous peoples, the state, infrastructure projects, and extractive economies in Colombia; Brenna McCaffrey (Cultural Anthropology), whose dissertation explores the interactions of feminism, activism, and biomedicine in Ireland and Elisandro Garza (Archaeology), whose work focuses on Mesoamerican Archaeology in Honduras, in which he is mapping and analyzing the emergence of complex societies and urbanism in Copán. We invite all graduate students in anthropology, the social sciences, and humanities to attend this free event. Please register at the link provided.
