Michael Walzer is Professor Emeritus of Social Science at the Institute for Advanced Study. He has written on a wide variety of topics in political theory and moral philosophy: political obligation, just and unjust war, nationalism and ethnicity, economic justice and the welfare state. Walzer was co-editor of Dissent Magazine, a unique voice of independent left-wing thought, for over three decades. Among his numerous books are Just and Unjust Wars, Spheres of Justice, The Company of Critics, Thick and Thin: Moral Argument at Home and Abroad, and On Toleration. His most recent book, In Search of a Decent Politics: Liberal as an Adjective, was published in 2023.

Richard Wolin is Distinguished Professor of History and Political Science and Comparative Literature at the CUNY Graduate Center. He has written frequently for the New Republic, The Nation, and Dissent. His new book, Heidegger in Ruins: Between Philosophy and Ideology, has just been published by Yale University Press.
